CARROLL (WHITEY) LOCKMAN, MANAGER

"Youth and speed" are the watchwords for Whitey Lockman in 1974. After a disappointing finish last year, Whitey has designated the 1974 season as one for reorganizing with young, fleet players as the foundation of the "new look" Cubs. Many of the old, familiar names are not in evidence this year, but Whitey and the Cubs are hoping the new names will become as familiar to Chicago fans as the old names were.

In his second full season as manager of the Cubs, Whitey's greatest virtue is his unending patience, and that quality was sorely tested last season. Although they led the Eastern Division of the National League most of May, June, and July, the Northsiders fell short of the division title on the final weekend of the 1973 season. After guiding the Cubs for a season and a half, Lockman decided it was time for a change of guard.

"Manager of the Year" Twice Enroute to Majors

Whitey joined the Cubs organization in November of 1964, and as a result of his first assignment, to pilot Dallas-Ft. Worth, he was named "Manager of the Year" in the Texas League. In 1966, he was a coach with the major league club before returning to managing in the minor leagues in 1967. Lockman managed the Tacoma Cubs of the Pacific Coast League, the Cubs' top minor league club at that time, for 4 years (1967-70), leading the T-Cubs to the P.C.L. championships in 1969, and again being named a "Manager of the Year." In December of 1970, Whitey was named Director of Player Development for the Cubs, and then in the winter of 1971 he was elevated to Assistant to the Vice President.

Prior to joining the Cubs' system, Lockman was a coach with the San Francisco Giants 4 seasons (1961-64) and was also a player-coach in his last season as an active player (1960) with the Cincinnati Reds.

An "All-Star" as a Player

Whitey broke into professional baseball in 1943, hitting .325 for Springfield (Mass.) of the Eastern League. He made his major league debut in 1945, hitting a home run for the New York Giants in his first major league plate appearance. Following military service, he returned to the Giants to become a star outfielder and first baseman. He appeared in 2 World Series for the Giants (1951 and '54) and was the National League's All-Star first baseman in 1952.

In addition to more than 11 seasons with the Giants, he also played with St. Louis and Cincinnati in the National League and Baltimore in the American League. Over a 16 year playing career in the major leagues, Whitey appeared in 1,666 games and owns a .279 lifetime batting average, including 114 home runs and 563 runs-batted-in.

HANK AGUIRRE

Hank is in his first season as pitching coach for the Cubs, after serving in several other capacities on the coaching staff the past two years. Signed to his first pro contract by Cleveland in 1951, Hank spent 10 years with Detroit (1958-67) highlighted by his 1962 performance when he led the American League with a 2.21 ERA and was a member of the All-Star Team. After one year with the Dodgers (1968), Hank wound-up his playing career with the Cubs in 1969 and '70. After sitting-out of baseball a year and a half, he joined the Cubs as a coach prior to the start of the 1972 season.

Jim was promoted to the Cubs' coaching staff this year after 6 seasons as a manager in the minor league system, the last 3 piloting the Cubs' top farm club to a league championship, a division title and a second place finish. In 1972, Jim was named "Manager of the Year" in the American Association after leading the Wichita Aeros to a division title. Marshall spent 5 seasons in the major leagues after making his big league debut with Baltimore in 1958. He also saw action with the Cubs (1958 and '59), San Francisco and the Mets before ending his major league career with the Pirates in 1962. He spent 1963, '64, and '65 playing baseball in Japan.

3

Al was named to the Cubs' coaching staff this year after managing the Midland Cubs of the AA-rated Texas League the past two seasons. This is actually Al's second stint on the coaching staff; he was first named coach in August of 1970, and stayed with the big club through the 1971 season (including a short time on the active roster late in '71) before going to the minor league system for some managing experience. An 11-year major league veteran, Al broke-in with the Milwaukee Braves in 1959. He also saw action with Houston and California before winding-up his playing career with the Cubs.

J.C. MARTIN

This is J.C.'s first season as a major league coach. He was appointed to the staff after spending last year as a player-coach with the Cubs top farm club at Wichita, Kansas, under Jim Marshall. A veteran of 12 years in the major leagues, Martin saw his playing career come to an end in August of 1972 when an injury sidelined him. He was signed to his first pro contract by the White Sox, and broke into the majors with them in 1959. J.C. spent nearly 6 seasons as their first string catcher before being traded to the Mets ('68), then the Cubs ('70).

The versatile young speedster played second base, third base, and the outfield last year for the Rangers while batting .249 and stealing 13 bases. . . . Former Texas Manager Whitley Herzog said of

In a season and a half in the big leagues he has stolen 20 bases. . . . Harris led the Midwest League with 39 steals in 1971 after finishing second with 30 in the Northwest League in 1970, his first year as a pro. . . . His best performance of the year was a .476 average (10-for-21) vs. San Francisco. . . . His best effort of the season was a 3-hit shutout over the Mets April 19th at Shea Stadium. . . . He also pitched a pair of 4-hitters. . . . It didn't take Hooton long to write his name into the history books; April 16, 1972, in only the fourth start of his major league career, he no-hit the Philadelphia Phillies. . . . He was named Chicago "Rookie of the Year" in 1972 by the Chicago Baseball Writers as a result of that performance. . . . Herb owns no major league experience, but he was drafted out of the Baltimore Orioles' farm system because the Cubs' scouting staff felt he was ready for the big leagues. . . . Hutson has an amazing minor league record of 51 wins against only 17 losses and a 2.51 ERA in 612 innings over 4 seasons. . . . And he should have a winning attitude—he has been on either a division winning or league championship team in every season since becoming a pro. . . . INFIELDER. Bats Switch. Throws Right. Born July 17, 1942. Height 6:01. Weight 180. Married. 2 sons. Residence: Northbrook, Ill. Acquired: signed by the Chicago Cubs.

Dandy Don, the Cubs' perennial super star shortstop, continues to roll along. . . . Last season, he led National League shortstops in put-outs (274) and double plays (109), and second in games (158), assists (526), and total chances (830), finishing 4th in the league in fielding percentage (.964). . . . The 5-time National League All-Star shortstop (1968-72) is in his 10th season with the Cubs. . . . 1971 was a big year for Don: he wrote his name in the record books by becoming the 62nd player in major league history to collect 6 hits in 6 at-bats in one game (June 17th vs. St. Louis). . . . It was the most hits in a single game by a Cub since Frank Demaree did it in 1937. . . . He also appeared in his 1,000th game (Aug. 21st) and collected his 1,000th major league hit (Sept. 22nd) in 1971, and tied a National League record by starting 4 double plays in a game (July 21st vs. the Mets). . . . Don won the "Golden Glove" as the best defensive shortstop in the League in 1970 and '69. . . . In '69 he led the League in every defensive department and set a National League record by playing in 54 consecutive errorless

JAMES (JIM) KREMME

Jim possesses a rare talent and one the Cubs can use most handily—he is a left-handed starting pitcher with a hummer of a fast ball. . . . In 3 years of pro ball he has averaged nearly a strikeout per inning (361 whiffs in 388 innings). . . . Signed to his first pro contract by the Rangers, he began the 1973 season with their top farm club, Spokane. . . . After putting together a 5-2 record and striking out 74 batters in 83 innings there, he was called up by the Rangers early in July and made his major league debut against the White Sox July 4th. . . . He was impressive enough in 2.1 innings that Manager Chuck Tanner recommended the Southsiders make an effort to acquire his contract. . . . In the meantime, the Rangers traded him to St. Louis July 16th, and he finished the season with the Cardinals' top farm club, Tulsa, before the White Sox obtained him Oct. 26th. . . . Kremmel had a spectacular career at the University of New Mexico where he set several records. . . . He pitched the first no-hitter in the history of the Western Athletic Conference (April 17, 1970, vs. the University of Arizona) and the only one in U.N.M.'s history.

Milt won 7 games in 1973 to bring his National League career total to 99 victories. . . . When he records that 100th win he will become only the third pitcher in major league history to win at least 100 games in both major leagues (the immortal Cy Young won 222 games in the A.L. and 289 in the N.L. 1890-1911, and Jim Bunning won 106 N.L. games and 118 A.L. games, 1955-1968). . . . Pappas also recorded a shutout last season to boost his career total to 43, third among active major league pitchers behind Bob Gibson (55) and Juan Marichal (53). . . . The 1972 season was a banner one for Milt: he came within an eye lash of being the first Cub pitcher in history to hurl a perfect game, he led the mound staff with a 2.77 ERA. (10th in the National League), had the highest winning percentage on the staff (.708), was the top control artist (1.34 walks per 9 innings) in the League, and compiled a string of 11 consecutive wins from Aug. 2nd to the end of the season. . . . Milt's no-hitter came Sept. 2, 1972, against the Padres at Wrigley Field; he retired 26 batters in a row before walking pinch hitter Larry Stahl with 2 out in the 9th inning. . . . However, he retired the final batter for the first no-hit game of his major league career. . . . Pappas registered career highs of 17 wins for the Cubs in both 1972 and '71. . . . In 1970, he was 10-8 after joining the Cubs, and led the team with a 2.67 ERA. . . . Also in 1970, he had the distinction of being the only pitcher to shutout Cincinnati (July 23rd on 4 hits for a 3-0 victory). . . . Milt, a 3-time American League All-Star, broke into the major leagues with Baltimore, and after 8 stellar seasons with the Orioles was traded to Cincinnati in the famous Frank Robinson deal. . . . After 3 years with the Reds he was traded to Atlanta before finding his "home" at Wrigley Field. . . . Milt is a television sportscaster off the diamond.

BILLY WILLIAMS

OUTFIELDER-INFIELDER. Bats Left. Throws Right. Born June 15, 1938. Height 6:01. Weight 175. Married, 4 daughters. Residence: Glen Ellyn, Ill. Acquired: signed by the Chicago Cubs.

Billy was the Cub's perennial super stick man again in 1973. . . . He led the team in RBI's (86) hits (166) and sacrifice flies (6) last year. . . . He also tied for second on the club with 20 homers, and collected 5 hits in a game to tie a National League season high (Sept. 7th vs. St. Louis). . . . Billy also made his 6th appearance on the National League All-Star Team in 1973. . . . The 1972 season had to be the highlight of his career for Billy. . . . He won the National League batting title with a .333 average, the first Cub to win the title since Phil Cavaretta in 1945 (with a .355 average) and only the third Cub to win the title in all of baseball history. . . . He had a truly sensational season at the plate finishing second in the League with 122 RBI's and third in home runs (37) and hits (191), and leading the Cubs in 10 season offensive departments. . . . Following the season, Billy was named "Major League Player of the Year" by the Sporting News, finished second in "Most Valuable Player" balloting, and was elected "Chicago Player of the Year" by the Chicago Baseball Writers. . . . Most memorable event of the '72 season was probably July 11th vs. Houston when he went 8-for-8 in a doubleheader, only one short of the major league record. . . . Williams joined the exclusive 300-Home-Runs Club May 15, 1971, when he hit one off Tom Phoebus of San Diego, and that same season (Aug. 17th), he got his 2,000th career hit. . . . Billy is in the Top Ten in 11 of 12 Cub all-time offensive departments, and holds many, many records. . . . Perhaps his most cherished record is National League mark of 1,117 consecutive games played (Sept. 22, 1963- Sept. 3, 1970). . . . He ranks third in all of baseball history in that department, behind only Deacon Scott (1,307) and Lou Gehrig (2,130). . . . Billy tied a pair of major league records in 1969: most doubles in a game (4, April 9th), and all of team's hits in a game (4, Sept. 5th). . . . In '68 he tied a major league record for most home runs, 2 consecutive games (5, Sept. 8th, 10th). . . . July 17, 1968, he became only the 6th Cub in history to hit for the cycle (and the last one to date). . . . He also holds the Cubs' record for home runs by a rookie (25). . . . He began his remarkable career in the big leagues in 1961 by being named "Rookie of the Year" in the National League.

CUBS WINTER HOME AT SCOTTSDALE

The Chicago Cubs, long-time advocates of the Southwest as a training area, are in their 8th spring at Scottsdale, Ariz. The primary ingredients needed to prepare a baseball team for the rigors of a 162-game major league schedule are plenty of sunshine and moderate temperatures. "The West's Most Western Town" has an abundance of both.

Scottsdale is located in the famous "Valley of the Sun" near booming Phoenix, Ariz., the largest city in the great Southwest. The sun shines 86 percent of the daylight hours and the humidity rarely climbs above 20 percent—ideal circumstances for a spring training site.

The Cubs are one of 7 teams that make up the so-called Cactus League, and one of 4 teams located in the Phoenix area.

Complete Facilities Make-Up Training Base

The parent club holds its spring workouts and plays its "home" spring games at Scottsdale Stadium, Osborn Road and Ball Park Plaza, just 2 blocks from downtown Scottsdale. The playing field is full-sized and of major league quality. The grandstand seats 4,200 fans.

Adjoining the playing field at the Stadium is a half-diamond—a complete infield to supplement the main field. Just a short distance from the Stadium a second, complete training area is located for use by the Cubs' minor league clubs. It consists of complete locker facilities for the more than 100 aspiring young players who train there, as well as 2 full diamonds, another half-diamond, and a battery of batting cages.

Here players assigned to Cubs' farm teams at Wichita Kan., Midland, Tex., Key West, Fla., or Bradenton, Fla. learn new skills which will prepare them for their seasons and hopefully one day help lead them to big league careers.

Winter Instructional Team Uses Same Base

Scottsdale Stadium is not just used for spring training by the Cubs. Each October, a team made-up of young players from every team in the organization convenes for a special training session called the "winter instructional camp." As in spring training, Scottsdale Stadium is home base for the winter instructional team, and it plays home games there against similar teams from other major league organizations.

Official hosts of the Cubs in Scottsdale are the "Charros," a group of civic-minded young businessmen associated with the Chamber of Commerce. Named for the gentried Spanish horsemen of a bygone era, they handle ticket sales, maintenance arrangements for the Stadium, and a myriad of other details attendant to spring training.

WRIGLEY FIELD—HOME OF THE CUBS

Wrigley Field combines the best of 2 worlds—the up-to-date comfort and conveniences of a modern stadium along with the nostalgia of more than a half-century of baseball tradition. The Cubs' major repair and renovating program, begun several years ago, continued this past winter, bringing to more than $5,135,000 the amount invested in improvements in recent years. And that figure does not include expenditures for each year's regular maintenance.

One of the few remaining parks in the major leagues that was designed for the sole purpose of playing a baseball game, Wrigley Field is still a park where fans are close to the action, and the stars of another era can almost be visualized playing within its vine covered walls. Even in this day of instant communication, the tradition is still maintained of flying a flag from the top of the scoreboard bearing either a "W" or an "L" after a game to inform passersby of the outcome of the day's contest.

Early History of the Park

The Cubs moved to the present North Side location for the start of the 1916 season. The site had been the playing field for the Chicago Whales of the short-lived Federal League, which operated in 1914-15. The Cubs played their first game on the present site April 20, 1916, defeating St. Louis 7-6 in 11 innings. The seating capacity was originally 14,000.

First major improvements were made in 1922-23 when the grandstand was moved back and enlarged, increasing the seating capacity to 20,000. Next, the park was doubled-decked in the winter of 1926-27, nearly doubling the seating capacity. During the summer of 1937 improved bleachers were constructed. Then, in 1938, wide chairs were installed in the boxes and grandstand. This added to fan comfort, reducing the park's total capacity by several thousand.

During the early years, the park was known simply as Cubs' Park. Then in 1926 it was officially named Wrigley Field in honor of William Wrigley Jr.

In recent years, the lower grandstand in right field was turned-in so that fans sitting down the right field line would face home plate; the entire upper deck was completely reconstructed (in a 4-year project that began in the winter of 1967-68 and was completed in the winter of 1970-71); and plastic, self-rising, contour seats were installed in the lower deck reserved seating area, replacing folding chairs; along with many other improvement projects.

The Flags of Wrigley Field Tell a Story

At all Cubs home games Old Glory flies from the centerfield masthead, highest point in the park. The flags of the 12 National League cities, 8 States, and Quebec fly at the Clark St. entrance.

Before and during each game, 12 pennants, one for each National League Club, fly from the yardarms in the order of the standings of each division on the morning of the game—the first place team in the East Division at top left, and the West Division leader at the right.

The Chicago Cubs flag—red and white on a blue background—displays 16 red stars representing the Club's 16 National League Championships. The two blue stares represent the Club's two World Championships.

Public Transportation is Easy and Convenient

Located at Clark and Addison Sts., 3600 North, 1000 West. Clark St. buses (No. 22) and Addison buses (No. 152) take you to main gates. CTA Rapid Transit trains ("L" and subway) take you to ¼ block from the ball park (Addison St. station). All northbound and southbound trains on the North-South Rapid Transit route stop at Addison on days of all Cubs home games throughout the season.

HIGHLIGHTS OF CUB HISTORY

The Chicago Cubs are playing in their 99th consecutive season in the Windy City this year. The Chicago National League Ball Club is one of the 8 original charter members of the National League, which was founded in 1876, and the team is very proud of the fact that is the only one of the original charter members which has operated continuously in the same city since.

One of the prime movers behind the founding of the new league was William A. Hulbert, president of the Chicago club. He became the first president of the National League, and held the dual roles of league president and club president until his death in 1882.

The Chicago club was known originally as the "White Stockings," although in those days nicknames were not official. About 1890 that name was dropped and the team was known by several nicknames, most notably the "Colts" and "Orphans." Legend has it that a newspaper writer, searching for a short nickname to fit a headline, first used the name "Cubs." It was officially adopted as the nickname of the club in 1900.

Early in the 20th century the club came under the absentee ownership of the Taft family of Cincinnati, but following the 1915 season a group of influential Chicagoans, among them William Wrigley Jr., purchased the club. Five years later, in 1921, Wrigley became majority stockholder. After the death of William Wrigley Jr. in 1932, his son, Philip K. Wrigley, became majority stockholder.

NOTES ON CUBS HISTORY

In 98 National League seasons, the Cubs have played 14,298 games, not counting ties, and won 7,419 of them, both lifetime major league records . . .

The Cubs have won 16 National League pennants, second only to the Giants with 18 . . .

The Cubs, as a team, have hit 100 or more home runs in each of their last 24 consecutive seasons . . .

The all-time major league record for wins in a season and winning percentage in a season is held by the 1906 Cubs, who won 116 and lost 36, for a .763 percentage . . .

The 1935 Cubs set the club record for consecutive wins in a season, with 21 in a row . . .

The largest crowd ever to see a baseball game at Wrigley Field was 51,556 on June 27, 1930, against Brooklyn. Of that number, however, 30,476 were Ladies Day guests and 1,332 passholders so the official paid crowd that day was only 19,748 . . .

*Major League record

GENERAL RULES INFORMATION

Player Limits: Clubs must cut active roster to a maximum of 25 players on opening day. . . . From Sept. 1 to opening day, clubs may carry up to 40 players.

Trades within the National League: From midnight the last day of the season to midnight June 15, player contracts may be traded or sold without getting waivers. . . . From June 15 to the end of the season, League waivers are necessary.

Waivers: Player contracts may be available for purchase by other clubs in reverse order of the League standings at the time waivers expire, if more than 30 days after opening day. Otherwise, in reverse order of the standing at the close of the previous season.

Inter-League Trades: From midnight on the 5th day after the completion of the World Series to midnight of the day preceding the last day of the Winter Meetings, player contracts may be traded or sold between clubs of the National and American Leagues without waivers. . . . From midnight, Dec. 10, to midnight, June 15, and from the last day of the season through the 4th day after the completion of the World Series, waivers are necessary in the assignor's league. . . . From midnight, June 15, to the last day of the season, waivers from all major league clubs are necessary.

Regulation Game: A regulation game consists of 9 innings unless extended because of a tie score or shortened because (1) the home team needs none of its half of the 9th or only part of it; or (2) because the umpire-in-chief calls the game after 5 completed innings. A regulation game may be less than 5 innings if the home team is ahead after the first of the 5th, or takes the lead or ties the score while at bat in the 5th.

Tie Game: A regulation game that is called by the umpire-in-chief when both teams have the same number of runs is a tie game. Individual player performances are official and are entered in the records, but the game does not count in the League standings and may be re-scheduled at a later date.

Suspended Game: A suspended game is one that has become a regulation game and is halted by a local curfew or a time limit, or a game halted by light failure either before or after it becomes a regulation game. Effective in 1969: A game tied after nine innings which is stopped by the same circumstances which make a game suspended if tied before 9 innings, will also be a suspended game. A suspended game is to be resumed from the exact point of suspension, if possible as a preliminary to the next game on the grounds where suspended. A game called because of darkness, rain or other weather conditions is not a suspended game. Exception: If, after the second game of a double-header in Chicago becomes a legal game, the game is called because of darkness, it shall be a suspended game.

NEW "SAVE" RULE IN 1974

Effective in 1974 the new save rule reads: "A relief pitcher shall be credited with a save when, in entering the game, he find the potential tying or winning run on base or at the plate, or pitches at least 3 effective innings and, in either, case, preserves the lead.

"When more than one relief pitcher qualifies for a save under the provisions of this rule, the save shall be credited to the relief pitcher judged by the official scorer to have been the most effective.

"It is not mandatory to credit a save. Only one save can be credited in any game."

CUBS PLAYER DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The Cubs player development organization consists of more than 30 scouts, roving instructors, coaches, managers, and supervisory personnel, all selected for their ability to work with youngsters. Their sole responsibility is to seek out, sign, and train young players for major league careers.

WICHITA

DIXON

Walt Dixon, in his 34th season of pro ball, is not only the dean of managers for the Cubs, but may be the dean of managers in all of professional baseball. . . . He leads Midland this year after a 2 year absence from the Texas League (he managed San Antonio in 1971). . . . Although he has managed just about everywhere in his 17 years in the Cubs' system, his most consistent address has been Quincy, Ill., where he was the pilot 6 of the last 9 years. . . . Lowe, of the Cubs' team in the Arizona Instructional League. . . . A catcher by trade, he was a player-coach with Midland last season. . . . Jack played pro ball 5 seasons, all in the Cubs organization (1969-73). . . . He was signed by the Cubs after a stellar career in semi-pro ball in Hawaii, playing for the U.S. Navy (1965-68).

KEY WEST

The past 2 winters he has managed the Cubs' club in the Arizona Instructional League, and spent the 1972 season as a coach with the major league club. . . . He was player-coach with San Antonio in 1970 and '71, and owns a total of 5 years as a pitcher (1967-71) in the Cubs' system.

ADAMS

ROVING INSTR.

Bobby Adams instructs youngsters on the art of infield play, an area where he was an expert in his 14-year major league career. . . . He returned to the diamond last year after 7 seasons as president of the Tacoma Cubs (1966-71) and Midland Cubs (1972). . . . He joined the Cubs in 1961, spending 5 years as a major league coach. . . . He played for the Cubs (1957-59), White Sox, Baltimore and Cincinnati.

BANKS

ROVING INSTR.

After 2 years with the major league club as a coach, Ernie Banks, "Mr. Cub," is doing what he likes best: teaching youngsters all about hitting. . . . And he knows how; he hit 512 home runs in his 19 years in the big leagues with the Cubs, and set or tied dozens of records and won countless honors. . . . He was National League "Most Valuable Player" twice, and on the All-Star Team 13 times. . . . He hit his 500th home run May 12, 1970, at Wrigley Field.

MARTIN

ROVING INSTR.

A roving pitching instructor in the Cubs' system, Fred is in his 39th year of pro ball. . . . He began his pro career in 1935 with the Cardinals and was still active as a relief pitcher at the age of 44 (with Houston of the Texas League in 1959). . . . He joined the Cubs' organization in 1960 and has been a pitching specialist ever since. . . . Fred is pitching coach for the Arizona Instructional camp during the fall months.

REISER

ROVING INSTR.

Pete joins the instructional staff after 6 seasons with the major league club as a coach (1966-69, 1972-73). . . . He spent 6 seasons managing at the minor league level before joining the Cubs. . . . Pete spent 10 years in the big leagues, winning the National League batting title in 1941 at the age of 21. . . . The 2-time National League All-Star set a record in 1946 that still stands: 7 steals of home.
